

EUROPEAN MOTOR INSURANCE COVER

Please ensure you have this document and a current Certificate of Insurance with you when taking your vehicle abroad.

This document is issued in place of the 'Green Card and Bail Bond' when driving within the European Union and other listed countries.

For English, French, German Italian and Spanish speaking countries your Certificate of Insurance provides a multi-lingual explanation of how your insurance cover applies abroad. That information is also provided here and in the appropriate language for all other member countries. This document should be presented to the relevant authorities with your Certificate of Insurance if requested.

 United Kingdom  Cyprus	 Ireland	Changes to Spanish motoring law have resulted in vehicles no longer being automatically impounded in the event of an accident. The Motor Insurance Bureau of Madrid advises us that these changes mean that you are no longer required to obtain a 'Bail Bond' for driving in Spain.	To whom it may concern This Certificate of Motor Insurance takes the place of an International Motor Insurance Card (Green Card) and is evidence that the insurance extends to include the compulsory motor insurance requirements of <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1 any member country of the European Union</li> <li>2 Norway, Switzerland, Iceland, Croatia and Liechtenstein.</li> </ol>

Procedure To Follow In The Event Of An Accident Abroad

- Never admit liability, either wholly or in part, for any accident or even say you are sorry. This can be misrepresented later. You may also be pressed by the local police to give a statement following the accident. Decline to do so until you have contacted the appropriate office for the relevant country (see attached list) who will then advise you. If you are still pressed and find it impossible to resist or circumstances make it impossible for you to contact a representative (and provided you are not suffering from the shock of the accident,) insist on writing a statement in English and present this to the authorities concerned, keeping a copy.
- Do not sign any statement you are alleged to have made that is drafted in a foreign language. Although an interpreter may be called, your meanings may not be accurately represented.
- If you are involved in an accident abroad you may be asked to complete, at the scene of the accident, a form which is known as "Constat amiable d'accident material". Problems may arise if you sign such a form if you do not understand perfectly what the other party has written or ticked. This may point to the accident having occurred under circumstances with which you do not agree. This could result in difficulties at a later stage when disputing the circumstances in a Court of Law. If you do complete this form, you should sign only after writing the words "I do not understand (the foreign language in question)".
- Do not move your vehicle or let the other party or parties do so until the police, who may have been called to the scene, have taken a note of its position.
- If you have a camera with you, take photographs of the scene immediately following the accident, showing the position of the vehicles, road signs and marks on roadway etc.
- It is our experience that where repairs are carried out on the Continent, they would not normally be up to UK standards. When the vehicle is back in the United Kingdom, faults are often found which necessitate defects being rectified with the appropriate duplication in charges.
- It is virtually impossible to obtain any satisfaction from a continental repairer who insists on being paid before they will release the vehicle. Therefore, the only work that should be put in hand is that which is essential to make the vehicle safe and roadworthy in order that it may be driven back to the United Kingdom where the repairs can then be undertaken.
- If the vehicle has been taken abroad under a motoring organisation scheme and is then rendered undriveable or unroadworthy, contact should be made immediately with their local representative to get the vehicle repatriated to the United Kingdom. The organisation concerned will contact us.
